Colonials Win 14th Stright Game, 33-25

H. Kiesel Makes 11 Points,
Tom O'Brien Sinks 5
Baskets

This Was the Fastest and Most Exciting Game
of the Season

George Washington University's fast stepping basketball team ran its consecutive game winning streak to fourteen last night when it repulsed the enemy, Westminster College, at the Tech High Gym, 33-25. It was G. W.'s fifteenth victory of the season.

It was also the fastest game played by the "Captivating Colonials" this season, and the boys of the Buff and Blue with their tongues hanging out.

Toss Offensive
G. W. took the offensive from the start and were never headed. However, the boys from up Pennsylvania way gave the Reinhardt proteges many an anxious moment.

Three baskets in succession in the closing minutes of the first half and a foul, followed by two baskets midway of the second half were the visitors' biggest scoring threats, although they pecked at the baskets from all angles throughout the contest.

Hal Kiesel, lanky center, increased his total points for the season to 165 with his four baskets and three foul shots. Tommy O'Brien, sensational sophomore, who was trailing Kiesel for individual scoring honors by two points as he entered the game, made five baskets for ten points, and, therefore, now trails by three points with a total of 162.

G. W. led at the half, 19-14.

Speech Prize Contest Date Set March 25

All Freshmen Eligible; Any Subject May Be Discussed

The fifth annual Freshman speaking contest sponsored by Sigma Delta Phi, women's speech fraternity, will be held March 25. All Freshmen are eligible to enter the contest, Maxine Kahn, president of the group, stated last week in announcing the rules of the contest. Speeches will be 10 minutes long.

Typewritten manuscripts for the contest must be submitted by 5 p.m. March 13, to the public speaking department, on the third floor of Building S. Finalists will then be selected to compete for the cup which will be given to the winner. Speeches may be on the subject selected by the students. The following topics have been suggested by Sigma Delta Phi: "Social Security—Blessing or Menace?"; "Should the Power of the Supreme Court Be Curbed?"; "The College Student in the 1936 Election"; "Have Fraternities and Sororities Outlived Their Usefulness?"; and "Recovery by Trial and Error".

The winner of the contest last year was Frank Whitbeck, who spoke on "The Preservation of American Security." Melvin A. Lewis was second place winner, with a speech on "Adolph Hitler." Dean Elmer L. Kayser has been named chairman of the contest. Judges will be announced later.

Malkus Lists Band Openings

There are vacancies in the clarinet, trombone, and French horn sections of the band, according to Louis Malkus, director. Students interested in trying out for these or other positions may do so at band rehearsals in Building S, Monday nights at 8 o'clock.

Malkus has expressed a desire that these vacancies be filled as quickly as possible, as the band has already begun preparation for a spring concert. Plans for this concert, the first of an annual series, are now under discussion by Kappa Kappa Psi, honorary music fraternity, and will be announced soon.

The annual band smoker will be held Feb. 28.

BOWLING DETAILS CARRIED
The Hatchet this year will carry in the sports section complete and detailed coverage of all interfraternity bowling contests, including individual scores, team totals, averages, and other statistical data.

Fiesta Board Of Directors Adopts Slogan

"Fiesta for the Band" Will Be Stressed in Publicity Drive

7 P.M. Saturday Is Deadline for Senior Staff
Applications

"Fiesta for the Band" was adopted Saturday as the slogan for the 1936 Fiesta scheduled to be held May 14-16. The motto, which was chosen at the first meeting of the Board of Directors, will be stressed on the radio, in newspaper articles, and on posters in an effort to focus student attention on the Fiesta, profits of which will go to the University Band, directors said after the meeting Saturday.

A plan calling for approximately three times as many contests as have been held previously and the distribution of an equal number of free prizes was made at the meeting.

Fiesta organization this year will be set up on a basis parallel to that outlined in the proposed Fiesta constitution. Personnel will be divided into three groups, junior staff, senior staff, and directors.

With announcement of senior staff members scheduled for next week, comparatively few applications for positions have been received. Howard Ennes, director, said yesterday. Applications for senior staff positions must be made before 7 p.m. Saturday. They should include name, address, phone, college, position desired, previous experiences, and other qualifications. A copy of the student's class program should also be submitted.

Council Again Delays Action

Lack of Quorum Causes
Postponement of Fiesta
Discussion

For the second time the Student Council failed to get prescribed business transacted at its regular meeting Thursday due to the absence of a quorum.

Debate prior to the quorum roll call centered around the report of the committee which had previously been appointed by Pres. Bourke Floyd to consider and amend the Fiesta constitution.

The committee as a whole reported the document favorably, although Austin Cunningham alone dissented. He objected to the proposed constitution, holding that the director of the Fiesta should be appointed by the president of the Student Council with the consent of the Council, and presented an amendment to that effect. The absence of a quorum, however, prevented action on the measure.

Glee Clubs Sing at Tech, Willard Hotel This Week

Representatives of the combined men's and women's glee clubs will sing before an assembly of night students at a banquet of the Washington Bankers' Association Saturday night at the Willard Hotel, Dr. Robert Harmon, director of the clubs, has announced.

The program tomorrow night will follow an address by Dean Henry Gratton Doyle in the Tech auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Theta Tau Holds Election Meeting Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow evening the University chapter of Theta Tau, professional engineering fraternity, will meet in 1-24, at 7 o'clock to elect a vice-president, a treasurer, and a corresponding secretary.

Union Defers Meeting, Considers Commerce Bill

Because of the holiday, the Union will not meet again until Mar. 1, according to Ted Pierson, president. The commerce committee will present a bill at this time.

Beers Directs Play to Be Presented March 20 and 21

Maxine Kahn and Edward Stevlingson were selected to play the leading roles in Cue and Curtin's next play, "Ten Minute Alibi", by Director Marvin Beers, after try-outs held last week.

Miss Kahn, who will be the only woman member of the cast, will play the part of Betty Findon, while Stevlingson will play Colin Derwent. Other members of the cast are Lawrence Beckerman, Philip Sevilla; Milton Friedman, Hunter, the butler; John Kendrick, Miles Standing; Joseph Klein, Sergeant Bruce; and Thomas Dobson, Inspector Fember.

"Ten Minute Alibi", a three-act mystery play by Antony Armstrong, scheduled to be presented in the Roosevelt High School auditorium Mar. 20 and 21, will be the second Cue and Curtin play this year to be directed by Marvin Beers.

The price of admission will be 75 cents to students and $1 to others.

Council Opens New Bureau Of Information

Student Record Files Will Be Gleaned, According to Floyd

A bureau of information to be open Monday and Wednesdays from 8 to 10:30 a.m. and Saturdays from 1 to 5 p.m. in the Student Council office, will give out information gleaned from the new Student Record files according to Bourke Floyd, president of the Council.

Floyd stated that information has already been computed with reference to students interested in band, sororities, publications, glee club, fraternities, baseball, debating, and dramatics, and that it would be made available to the various activities immediately.

The bureau, which, according to Floyd, is to bring the activities into closer contact with the students, will give out the information which is available from the cards already filed; and will afford an opportunity for students who have not already done so to fill out their activity cards.

Daniel Andersen, chairman of the Student Council committee in charge of the record, is at present contacting by mail those students who, for some reason or other, failed to fill out cards for the file.

Ames Announces Change in Date Of Frosh Mixer

The Freshman Mixer, originally scheduled for Feb. 14, will be held Feb. 28 at 9 p.m. in the Student Club, according to Harry Ames, social chairman of the Student Council.

Dick Stiles' orchestra will provide music for informal dancing.

The postponement of the Mixer, according to Ames, gives freshmen a better chance to learn of the affair, thus insuring a larger attendance of new students.

The Mixer is to introduce freshmen to members of the student body and to possibilities offered in activities at the University.

Alumni Present Portraits To Law School

Jackson, President of Law
Association
Speaks

"The Supreme Court of the United States needs no defense, other than the character of its personnel and the integrity of its decisions." These were the words of E. Hilton Jackson, president of the George Washington Law Association, in presenting to the University on behalf of the alumni portraits of former associate Supreme Court justices, David Joseph Brewer, John Marshall Harlan, and William Strong, all of whom served on the University faculty.

Ceremonies were held Feb. 12 in Stockton Hall, with members of the Board of Trustees, alumni, and students in attendance. Pres. Cloyd H. Marvin accepted the gift on behalf of the University. Prof. Hector G. Spaulding, of the law faculty, presided in the absence of Dean William C. Van Vleck.

Reviewing the history of the Supreme Court Mr. Jackson said, "If there be some who view with alarm the current attacks that are being made upon this high tribunal, let them not take counsel with their fears. This Court survived the attack by Thomas Jefferson in the full plenitude of his power following the decision of Marbury vs. Madison in 1803; it survived the attack made by Abraham Lincoln, following the Dred Scott decision.

Strong Hall Reservations Now Possible

Women's Dormitory Will Be Ready for Fall
Semester

Double Rooms Will Cost
$17.50; Single Rooms,
$25.00

Reservations may be made now for 1936-1937 accommodations in Strong Hall, the women's dormitory now under construction. Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance, has stated.

As far as can be determined, the dormitory will be ready to accommodate over 100 women at the beginning of the fall semester. Double rooms will cost $17.50 each per month and single rooms will cost $25.

There will be running water in each room. Double rooms will have two closets and single rooms will have one. Double rooms will be situated at the ends of the corridors, with single rooms grouped in the central part of the floors.

Each double room will open onto a bath shared by occupants of the adjoining double room. Those living in single rooms will have access to baths centrally located on each floor. There will be one bath for each three single rooms.

Regarding room preferences, Mrs. Barrows says that applications will be handled in the order they are received.

The administrative organization of the dormitory has not yet been made up.

Cherry Tree Photographing Closes Wed.

Candidates in Beauty Contest To Be Announced
Next Week

Tomorrow is the last day that students may be photographed for the 1936 Cherry Tree, whether it is for the sorority, fraternity, senior, or organization section of the yearbook, according to Helen Buntin, editor.

Announcement of candidates in the beauty contest, to be judged by Neyna McMein of McCall's Magazine and John La Gatta, illustrator for the Saturday Evening Post, will be made next week. Both those chosen to represent the seven sororities which were eligible to enter a candidate and the seven chosen by Edmonston's Studio, making a total of 14, will be named.

Organization Copy Needed
All organizations should turn in their copy for the yearbook by the end of this week, and those which have not yet paid the price for their page space which, according to the contract, was due Jan. 1, should do so at once, according to Harry Ames, business manager.

The subscriptions, sales contest, which will close Mar. 1, has been entered by all the sororities and many fraternities, Miss Buntin said. "Prizes in the contest are as follows: $25, first prize, offered by the Student Council; second prize, and third prize of $15 and $10 each, offered by the Cherry Tree Board. These awards will go to the organization selling the most subscriptions to the annual.

George Washington

An Appreciation of the Man Whose Name Honors Our University, and Whom We Honor This Week

By L. Russell Alden

Editor's Note:—The author of the following article has a long and distinguished record at George Washington University. Now a prominent and popular member of the Law School faculty and the D. C. Bar, Mr. Alden received his A.B. degree from the University in 1903, his A.M. (in history) in 1904, LL.B. in 1906; also holds an A.M. (for work in law) from Harvard University. While an undergraduate here, he was quite prominent in activities of an intellectual nature, receiving no less than seventeen different honors, including the Davis Prize for public speaking. Except for an absence of several years he has been a member of the faculty since graduation. Ever a close and searching scholar in history, Mr. Alden presents in this article a unique appreciation of our first patron, George Washington.

GEORGE WASHINGTON was dead. On Dec. 14, 1799, at his home, Mount Vernon, on the Potomac, the Father of his country had passed from the scene of his labors.

"It remains," wrote the President, John Adams, in announcing his death to Congress, "for an affectionate and grateful people, in whose hearts he can never die, to pay suitable honors to his memory." Both the Senate and the House of Representatives waited on the President to condole with him.

"Permit us, sir," said Samuel Livermore, President of the Senate pro tempore, "to mingle our tears with yours. On this occasion it is mainly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis is no common calamity to the world. Our country mourns her father. * * * With patriotic pride we review the life of our Washington and compare him with those of other countries who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern names are diminished before him. Greatness and glory have too often been allied, but his fame is whiter than it is brilliant. * * * Washington yet lives on earth in his spotless example; his spirit is in Heaven."

Memorial services were held and Representative Henry (Light Horse Harry) Lee of Virginia was the eulogist. In glowing words he depicted Washington's services and character. "Vice shuddered in his presence," he declared, "and virtue always felt his fostering hand; the purity of his private character gave effulgence to his public virtues." "Second to none in the humble and endearing scenes of private life," he was "first in war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of his countrymen."

WHAT was the basis of this estimate and what the reasons for its endurance to this present day?

"George Washington's face and figure," writes the historian Channing, "are more familiar than those of any other of our greatest men,—with the possible exception of Abraham Lincoln,—but as to the inner man we are even now strangely ignorant. For fifteen years Washington lived in public gaze. * * * His tall spare frame and set features are stereotyped on the American retina. This is the heroic figure, the peripheral man; when one seeks beneath these exterior shroudings to find the living, breathing, human being, one soon comes to realize that no more elusive personality exists in history." To Channing "he stalked impassive through his world, inspiring awe and trust wherever he went."

Claude Bowers, in his Jefferson and Hamilton, portrays him, during the years he was President, as a tired old man, sinking into the background as the clash of battle between Hamilton and Jefferson shook their world with its increasing violence and clamor, so that, in fact, that one of Bowers' critics rather naively asked "Where was that man Washington when all these things took place?"

Fletcher Pratt, in The Heroic Years, characterizes Hamilton as "the brain that had worked behind the marble mask of Washington." Elusive, impassive, unknown, a marble mask. Perhaps. But, none the less, "inspiring awe and trust wherever he went." For he sought nothing for himself, he commanded others successfully, because he had complete command of himself, and he gave himself unreservedly, with all the great faith and courage and determination and patience and perseverance and practical common sense that were his, with all of his very great qualities of leadership, to the service of his fellow countrymen in their time of greatest need. Therefore, he is enshrined in their hearts and there the memory of him will abide forever.

WASHINGTON is best known to most of his countrymen through his services as Commander in Chief of the armies of the Revolution. They think of the crossing of the Delaware and Trenton and Princeton, of Germantown, of Valley Forge, of Monmouth Court House and of final victory at Yorktown. Some modern critics have tried to belittle Washington's military abilities, but von Moltke, the great German strategist, said that no finer movement was ever executed than Washington's retreat across the Jerseys, with his return across the Delaware a first time and then a second, so as to draw out the enemy in a long thin line, and Horace Walpole declared Washington's march through the British lines to be "a prodigy of generalship."

Col. Samuel C. Vestal, in a monograph on "Washington the Military Man", in discussing the joint operations with the French

Roberts Holds New Position

Pres. Marvin Creates Post
On Student Life
Committee

President Cloyd Heck Marvin, upon the recommendation of Dean Henry Gratton Doyle, chairman of the Committee on Student Life, has appointed Prof. Henry G. Roberts, of the department of Public Speaking, as a member of that Committee. Professor Roberts' assignment as a member of the Student Life Committee will be to act as liaison officer between the men's fraternities and the University.

Prof. Roberts stated he would be glad to establish informal contacts with chapter officers, alumni or faculty advisers, and national or regional representatives of fraternities which have chapters at the University, and to consult with them on matters affecting the progress of the fraternities or their relationships with the University.

He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity and for a number of years served as faculty adviser to Phi Eta Sigma, the freshman honorary scholarship fraternity for men.

Gotlieb Elected to Seat In Government Council

Jerome Gotlieb, Service Club candidate, defeated Paul A. Brogren for the third seat on the School of Government governing council in elections held last week.

At a meeting to be held this week, a constitution for the school's council will be drawn up, and a permanent member will be elected to the Student Council.

Convocation Will Be Held At D.A.R. Hall

Academic Procession Will Begin Promptly at 8
P.M. Saturday

Cadman, Radio Minister, to Deliver Commencement
Address

Constitution Hall has been selected for Mid-Winter Convocation exercises, according to Elmer Louis Kayser, University Marshall. The academic procession will begin promptly at 8 p.m. Saturday.

The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, speaker, is radio minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. An Englishman by birth, he has received honorary degrees from 15 American Universities.

Kayser Presides

Elmer Louis Kayser, as Marshal of the University, will preside at the exercises. The Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church, will pronounce the invocation which will immediately precede Dr. Cadman's address.

Degrees will then be conferred by Pres. Cloyd H. Marvin. Candidates will be introduced as a group by the marshal of the University and as they receive their degrees their names are to be read by their respective deans. Following the conferring of degrees Pres. Marvin will deliver the charge to the graduates.

Gaul Directs Music

Music will be under the direction of George Gaul, personnel member of the Washington Symphony Orchestra. Incidental organ selections are to be rendered by John Russell Mason, librarian of the University.

Candidates for degrees and certificates, as well as other students, may procure their tickets and invitations through the Office of the Registrar, Building H.

Caps and gowns may be obtained in the basement lounge of Constitution Hall at 6:30 p.m., Saturday. Lines will be formed in the C St. corridor at 7:30 p.m.

Since the President will present each student with his own diploma, it is necessary that candidates arrive early in order to avoid confusion in the line of march, according to Kayser.

Senior Council Sets Amounts For Class Gift

Exitus Acta Probat

February 22 Has Special Significance for G. W. U.

SATURDAY is the birthday anniversary of George Washington, whose ideals and principles govern to a large extent the policy of the University which bears his name.

It is therefore fitting that we dedicate this issue of The Hatchet to George Washington—the man. His influence is aptly described by President Marvin, who says:

"The name of George Washington, with all that the name connotes, is woven into the fabric of our University tradition. Feb. 22, hence, is a day of special significance for the University and is traditionally the occasion of our Winter Convocation. The University colors (the buff and blue of which were matched with the colors of George Washington's uniform)—the names of our student publications—the words and the spirit of our songs—all reflect this historic and psychic association. Standing always, a visible evidence of our allegiance to our Patron Saint, is the statue of George Washington in the University Yard.

That allegiance is not mere outward observance. It penetrates and informs the University's fundamental educational policies and processes.

George Washington's concern for the establishment of a university in the Nation's Capital was rooted in his comprehension of the importance to the new Republic's future of popular enlightenment. In an age which viewed learning as an ornament of the privileged rather than as a part of the heritage and the equipment of every citizen, his conception of the function of education in a democracy was far in advance of his time. It was probably owing to this fact that the establishment of the University in the Nation's Capital was so long delayed that the stock which he willed for its founding became valueless. But the tradition he bequeathed it was an endowment richer than any material gift.

Cleaving to Washington's principles, The George Washington University is dedicated to the democratic ideal in education, as touches both its objectives and its opportunities. To lay before her students the records of history, to inspire them through instruction in the technique of discovery, to lead them to the interpretation and application of this knowledge in terms of social usefulness; and, moreover, to keep educational opportunities within the reach of all with the capacity to profit therefrom—these are the aims of The George Washington University.

Thus the University which bears his name perpetuates the ideals for which George Washington stood."

Bowling Judge Unnecessary in Interfraternity Series

INTERFRATERNITY bowling got off to a good start Saturday night.

The interest and enthusiasm which has accompanied interfraternity bowling competition in past years were present and so were the same line-ups.

One innovation in the competition this year, however, was the presence of judges to see that the foul line was observed.

The Hatchet joins most of the bowlers in protesting to the Interfraternity Council against the judges.

We admit, of course, that judges are provided for in official rules, that they are used in the big matches, and that most competitions do require that games be so supervised.

But we do question the advisability of having judges for the interfraternity competition for two reasons.

In the first place, the Rendezvous is hardly equipped to handle six matches properly judged at the same time. There are facilities for only two judges and when twelve alleys are being used at the same time those teams using the alleys most directly under the judge's observation naturally suffer the most penalties.

In the second place, members of the fraternity teams as a rule are not experienced bowlers. They participate only for the sport of the competition and are not, so far as we can learn, striving to set any official records. In such a competition, penalizing those who happen to run over the foul line by so small a margin as one-quarter of an inch hardly seems necessary or wise.

A vote of the Interfraternity Council is all that is needed to do away with the judges.

George Washington

which culminated at Yorktown, points out that "Nothing is more difficult in war than to command allied forces in joint operations. Washington did it so well that we overlook the fact that he furnishes the most successful instance in history of the exercise of such a command." And he declares that "In its consequences, the defeat at Yorktown was the most momentous ever suffered by an army of Imperial Britain" for "it put an end to the Revolutionary War."

IT WAS moral leadership, however, even more than military ability, that made Washington first, not only in war, but also in peace and in the hearts of his grateful countrymen.

I think of the way in which he shared every hardship of his suffering men and of how he never lost courage or gave up hope, even in the "darkest hour" of Valley Forge. I think of his unswerving loyalty to the cause for which he fought, even when the Continental Congress tried him worse than the enemy and some of his own officers were conspiring against him. I think of the letter that one of his own colonels wrote to him, in 1782, stating that a limited monarchy was the best form of government and that Washington himself would be the best of monarchs, that Congress would not do justice to the army, but that the soldiers would welcome their leader as king, and of Washington's reply that nothing had ever given him more painful sensations than the "information of their being such ideas existing in the army."

And I think of him, when the war was over and independence was won, bidding farewell to his officers, quietly repairing to Annapolis and there, in the State House still standing, voluntarily relinquishing his command of the army, resigning his commission and retiring to private life. His country had not trusted him in vain.

BUT George Washington's country still needed him. Called away again from his beloved Mount Vernon, he presided over and guided the convention that drafted the Constitution and, upon its adoption, became the first President of the United States.

"The first President," says Oliver, in his Life of Hamilton, "had the gift of seeing into the heart of a situation better than most men, and he therefore doubtless understood that his unanimous election was not the beginning of the Millennium. He had a just pride in his fame in the world, an honorable concern for the good opinion of his fellow countrymen, and it needed no prophetic instinct to perceive that in his new adventure both were to be placed in jeopardy. * * * No action of his life shows a finer patriotism than his acceptance of office; for he foresaw both the danger and the labour, and judged notwithstanding that duty left him no escape."

On George Washington's services to his country in peace, as its first President, we can not here dwell at length. How great his task was and how well he performed it we scarce realize fully, even today. So accustomed are we to accept its results as matters of fact that its magnitude pales in the very light of its accomplishment. But never did he render his country greater service, at heavier cost to himself, than he did when, with his own party clamoring for war with France and their opponents clamoring for another war with England, he kept his country at peace, knowing that it could not then engage in another war with safety.

A storm of abuse broke over his head until, in his anguish, he cried out that he would rather be in his grave than be President of the United States. The patriot, who was first in war, knew what it meant, not only while in progress but also in its aftermath. When there was no other recourse, if liberty and opportunity for the pursuit of happiness were to be preserved, he had not hesitated to resort to the arbitrament of arms. But, when the way of peace was possible and best, he withstood all, that the foundations being laid should not be destroyed. An American Moses, he not only led his people through their wilderness, but presided over their organization as a nation and insisted that they establish themselves in their land of promise.

"Lord, now testeth thou thy servant depart in peace, for mine eyes have seen thy salvation," was the pious ejaculation of a man who beheld a flood of happiness rushing in upon mankind," wrote Franklin's grandson, Bache, in the Aurora, as Washington passed out of office at the end of his second term in the Presidency. "If ever there was a time that would license the reiteration of the exclamation, that time is now arrived; for the man, who is the source of all the misfortunes of our country, is this day reduced to a level with his fellow citizens and is no longer possessed of power to multiply evils upon the United States. * * * This day ought to be a JUBILEE in the United States." And as to you, sir," wrote Paine to Washington, "treacherous in private friendship and a hypocrite in public life, the world would be puzzled to decide whether you are an apostate or an imposter; whether you have abandoned good principles or whether you ever had any."

George Washington's detractors, Bache and Paine and others of their kind, are dead and their tongues are silenced. Even their personalities are dimmed and fading out in the perspective of time. We resurrect their strictures only from dusty files that we may copy them to gaze upon as curious examples of the distorted passions of their era. But the man they slandered looms larger as the years pass on.

Samuel Livermore appraised him more rightly. His estimate has become the considered judgment of time. Let us hear him again. "Greatness and guilt have too often been allied, but his fame is whiter than it is brilliant. * * * Washington yet lives on earth in his spotless example." George Washington dead? No! George Washington yet lives and will ever live, so long as the nation he helped to found endures, enshrined, first, in the hearts of his grateful countrymen. May our University, which bears his name, lead them in keeping his light burning!

FLYING CHIPS

Of the Four Associate Directors of the Fiesta, Only One Served on Last Year's Staff . . .

—By Jimmie Haley—

THERE was almost one hundred percent surprise expressed, I believe, by followers of student affairs over the appointments to the Assistant Fiesta Directorships.

It is most difficult to deduct exactly what prompted Director Howard Ennes to make the appointments announced last week. Appointments were not made, I concede, along lines of any "party" alignments; they seem to be a result not of party but of personal loyalties or favoritism.

IN ONE fashion or another foreign countries seem to make their marks on many University students. Today we discuss a Puerto Rican woman student who participated in a strike against a school board of trustees and a librarian in charge of the second largest collection of maps in the nation.

GLORIA OJEDA DEL VALLE was one of a group who struck against a school board of trustees. Attending the University of Puerto Rico at San Juan in 1933, she walked out with the remainder of the university's student body when a man who had not been educated beyond the eighth grade was appointed to the board.

Miss del Valle lived in Puerto Rico all her life before coming here in 1934. From 1919 to 1928 she attended the Perpetual Help convent in San Juan, her home. She entered the University of Puerto Rico in 1932 and attended there until 1934, during which year she enrolled in this university.

In addition to Spanish and English, she has a speaking knowledge of French. At the university she is majoring in pharmacy. She is a member of the local chapter of Phi Mu.

CLARA EGLI, assistant chief of the map division of the Library of Congress, works among more than 1,357,000 maps and 10,000 atlases. These comprise the second largest map collection in the nation and the largest collection of historical American maps in the world.

Much of her work consists in making recommendations for the purchase of maps by the library. She does this by consulting second hand catalogues and checking literature of almost every map publisher in the world. Many maps, she says, come to the library through governmental and international exchange.

Miss Egli has helped compile two of the three editions of "Noteworthy Maps" which have been issued since the division's establishment in 1897. These are records of the library's acquisitions during a fiscal year.

Boundary disputes are often settled by consulting maps under Miss Egli's supervision. Library maps are being used extensively by both sides in the Virginia-District of Columbia dispute now pending.

We Snoop To Conquer

Chi Omega Founds Oomph Club . . . John Molyneux Becomes "Forgotten Man" . . . John Crocker Escorts Two Girls to One Dance . . .

By The Keyholders

PROUD G. W. parents, have you a little Oomph-er in your home? It is unlikely unless your daughter is a Chi Omega, for they have a stranglehold on the Oomph Club. When angered, members of the Oomph Club wreak their vengeance on inanimate objects instead of dealing in personalities. So far three telephone books and two dishes have fallen before the wrath of the Chi Omegas. This activity (organized to get more activity points for Chi O's) was founded by Sis Porter. To date its members include Sue Slater, Frances Kenna, Janice Norton, and Harriet Hartnett.

John Molyneux now rates the title of G. W. No. 1 "Forgotten Man". As social chairman of the Interfraternity Council, he is not permitted any opinion on even the slightest details of the forthcoming Prom. Newell Lusby is "doubling in brass" by holding down both the offices of the president and social chairman of the Council.

John Crocker recently took two girls to an SAE dance (same night, same time, same dance) and neither knew of the other. The ladies in question were our own Boo Stillwell and Audrey Wolfe of King-Smith. Take it from us (or not as you like) but it takes ingenuity to manage that successfully.

Why has Eldridge Loeffler already placed the order for the Panhel Prom programs with the date still unknown and the orchestra still unselected? We are forced to suspect an ulterior motive for never before has a Panhel social chairman moved with such celerity.

Does anyone suppose that Jerry Ray could be the reason why Bob Howell is heard moving around the Phi Mu rooms so frequently now? Of course, it's merely coincidence that Miss Ray recently joined Mr. Howell on the Hatchet staff. P. S. She's wearing his Sigma Chi pin.

Two G. W.-ites were selected for auditions in the amateur contests at the Fox last week. Eleanor Boehs and Irving Hackerman were the lucky ones. They sang on the Fox stage at various times this week. Eleanor will be remembered for the delightful way she sang the lead in the Troubadour production of "Take It Easy" two seasons ago, while Hackerman was the composer of the Fiesta theme song of the same year.

Last year Kitty Black wore a diamond, belonging to her mother, on the ring finger of her left hand just to befuddle her many admir-

Constitutional Body Guided By Washington

By Bill Cheatham

ONE of George Washington's greatest achievements, and yet one which is seldom thought of and ranked as such, is the part he played in the forming of the Constitution of the United States, so unpretentious on his part, but so vital to its drafting and ratification of the Constitution.

Washington's service to his country in aiding to draft the Constitution and in skillfully guiding it safely through its rocky course in the Convention, is ranked, by an outstanding historian, next to his military service, no other excepted. This is confirmed by the fact that his political contemporaries wrote him sometime before the Constitution Convention convened, urging his attendance as a delegate from Virginia. They based their pleas on the grounds that Washington's name and presence, as well as his sagacity, would not only lend momentous influence to induce the States to take part in the Convention, but would aid infinitely in its drafting, and would be necessary to insure its favorable reception and adoption by the people.

Though he followed the debate keenly, Washington took no active part in discussions on the floor until the last day when he stated briefly his view on representation in Congress. The question was immediately put in the form Washington suggested and without debate was carried unanimously. Thus his endeavor to promote the interest and dignity of the people had a magic force upon the convention.

He is recorded as having voted only five times, and did so then to prevent a division in the Virginia delegation.

Once in the course of a colloquy involving many delegates in which sharp statements were made which brought the Convention almost to a breaking point, Washington caused it to be adjourned for 48 hours in order to allow the personal anger of delegates to cool.

Like Franklin, Washington maintained an attitude of conciliation and willingness to forego his own views on a particular subject, if by so doing he would accomplish a larger end.

MUSIC

Zimbalist, Headliner on Next National Symphony

Program, Features All-Russian

Selections

By H. Gifford Irion

ANYONE whose afternoons are his own would do well to hear the National Symphony's program Thursday afternoon next. There is to be a performance of the Glazounov violin concerto by Efram Zimbalist, who, of course, needs no introduction. This work, while very difficult and distinctly a virtuoso composition, has a flow of melody which makes it gratifying to the untutored listener, as well as to the trained musician. The rest of the program is engaging. All the works are Russian and range from the classical Glinka, through the torrential dances of Borodin to the modernist, Stravinsky.

In casual conversation I have ascertained that a surprising number of students at our G. St. cloister are addicted to the expensive but recreative hobby of collecting records. To those individuals I address a most hearty recommendation to hear Columbia's new issue of Prokofiev's violin concerto played by Joseph Szigeti and the London Philharmonic. Here is modern music in all its fluorescent brilliance. A great concerto, a magnificent rendition, a faultless recording.

The moderns are further represented in this month's releases by two string quartets. Victor has re-

THE weather is always good for a beginning, conversationally speaking, but, mortally speaking, this particular weather ought to be good for a finish. We don't know whether anyone has been hit or not, but we were narrowly missed by several pointed icicles and a flock of snow when they all landed off Lister Hall as we were making an exit from the building. (Anyone saying, "That's too bad," will be perfectly understood.)

Rumors are running about about a G. W. Caterpillar Club, not for flyers or skaters, but for those who frequent the Student Club. It seems that the atmosphere down there makes even serious-minded people, like students, forget their dignities. The chairs, when sat in, find it a physical impossibility to stand on four legs at once. They are forced to tilt and teeter on one or two, finally ending up by having the times of their lives catapulting their occupants all over the floor. "And," say those who know, "he who is catapulted automatically becomes a caterpillar."

Now that the deadline for individual Cherry Tree pictures has been extended, everyone who isn't home when you call is at the photographer. The photographer must be thinking that life has come to be just one G. W.-an's face after another G. W.-ite's face, all of them needing a face lift and, of all things, expecting a photographer to do it. Those who don't want to look beautiful want to look virile. Why are people so unreasonable? Because they're people.

Several years after the adoption of the Constitution it was stated by contemporaries of Washington that it has also been said by present day authorities, that to Washington, above all men, is due the ideal of a federated union, for without his influence the great result of the Convention would probably never have been secured.

While waiting for the convention to meet, Washington one day said to a group of delegates:

"If, to please the people, we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we afterwards defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and just can repair. The event is in the hand of God."

Wanderings and Wonderings About G. W. (the Man)

By Maria Drane

WITH Washington's birthday approaching, one's mind wanders and wonders.

Wonder, for instance, what George Washington would say, should he look down (or up) and see in the pages of The Hatchet as much or more attention and interest devoted to one of our annual dances, as to the anniversary of his birth? Would he be surprised?

I think not. For, according to the records, Washington was as ardent a lover of dancing as are any of our University swains of today. And, also judging from historical records, he could give as gay a party at Mt. Vernon as any of the dances our better-known hotels have to offer. In fact, moderns would probably be amazed to see a certain bill sent to Washington after a party he gave for his officers, requesting payment of several hundred dollars for broken glasses, etc.

Of course Colonial functions differed from those of today in many respects: The music, for instance. Ladies and gentlemen of Washington's day would run into great difficulties trying to adjust their dainty minuet to that tune of tunes, "The Music Goes Round and Round."

AND what a blessed relief it would be to be escorted back to one's chair at the end of a dance and wait there until another partner came along, asking, in flowery terms, the privilege of having the next dance! Contrast that to our present-day method of being snatched from one man to another without warning...frequently without introduction to the "snatcher."

One of the major pastimes at social functions of Colonial days was flirtation. It is said of Washington that, although professedly shy of the ladies, he was quite well-versed in this art. Would that we could know what flatteries and pleasantries really made up a "line" in those days!

Would that we could see the expression on the face of one of the gentle Colonial belles, should time permit that one of the better-known "bull-shooters" from this campus might whisper sweet nothings in her ear.

Times has indeed changed. For

Prominent diplomats and members of the University faculty were guests at the dedicatory reception at International House Sunday. ## Diplomats, University Officials Attend Foreign Center Opening

By Lee Roark

INTERNATIONAL House, designed as a social and educational center for the University's foreign students, was officially dedicated Sunday with a brilliant informal reception attended by prominent diplomats and members of the faculty.

Prof. Alan T. Deibert, adviser to students from foreign countries, received, at the tea table, were Mrs. Henry G. Doyle, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., of the board of trustees; Mrs. Charles W. Richardson; Mrs. A. Curtis Wilgus, and Miss Norma Kale.

Faculty Members Present

Among the officials of the administration who attended the reception were Mrs. Vinnie Barrows, Mr. Harold G. Sutton, Mr. John Mason, Dean William C. Johnston, Jr., Dean Henry G. Doyle, Dean John R. Lapham, Dean William C. Ruediger, Dean Warren R. West, Mr. Alfred Schmidt, Mr. Norris T. Crandall, Dean Elmer L. Kayser, and Mr. Harry C. Davis. Several members of the diplomatic missions were also present, including Senor de Quintanilla, Counselor of the Mexican Embassy, and Senora de Quintanilla; S. Nilkamhaeng, second secretary of the Siamese Legation; Mahmood Tahir, attaché of the Legation of Iran; Miss Julia Sze, daughter of the Chinese Ambassador.

Many Tongues Heard

"Listening in" at the housewarming seemed closely akin to "snooping" at a diplomatic reception.

Above the constant hum of voices that filled the two rooms throughout the afternoon, one could hear occasional snatches of conversation in Spanish or German, even a bit of Chinese, and much English that was tinted with various shades of accent.

We found that right in our foreign student body we have a "diplomatic list." Mahmood Tahir, for instance, who is one of the most enthusiastic members of the International Students Society, is Attaché of the Legation of Iran (Persia). Julia Sze, the attractive daughter of the Chinese Ambassador, is also a student in the University. Helga Schulz the comely frau from Germany who assisted at the tea, is the daughter of the Chancellor of the German Embassy.

Rifle Teams Begin Fire This Week

Sehorn Leads Varsity in Intercollegiate Rifle Matches

WOMEN'S inter-class rifle teams, chosen last week by Coach Helen Hanford, begin firing in their annual competition this week. Matches will continue through the month.

Team personnel selected is as follows:

Junior-Senior squad—Erma Cannon, Mary Elizabeth Hand, Betty Hartung, and Julian Stanton; sophomore—Harriet Giltner, Mary Jane Livingstone, Frances McMillan, and Frances Prather; freshman—Tinker Considine, Patricia Davis, Betty Emerson, and Marie McNeese.

Each member of each team will fire three targets of ten record shots. The team's score will be the combined scores of the targets of the members.

Sehorn Leads Varsity

Marjorie Sehorn led the varsity members in the Women's National Individual Intercollegiate Championship Rifle match with the unofficial score of 590 out of a possible 600.

The match fired during Jan. consisted of three sets of targets, each set having two targets fired in succession. Targets were sent to the National Rifle Association, which is tabulating the scores of all entrants and will announce the national champion during March. Last year Mary Sehorn placed fourth in the match.

N. I. C. Scores

The scores of the varsity members in the Individual Intercollegiate Championship match are as follows:

Marjorie Sehorn	590
Ruth Brewer	589
Dahlia Lewis	589

Sanford To Lead Midnight March

Mary Spelman Accompanies Guest of Honor, Lee Fields Plays

HARD-working engineers, unable to use their levels and transits because of the inclement weather, have subdued their consciences to join in the swirl of social activity at the fifth annual Engineers' Ball Friday evening at the Kennedy-Warren.

Some who would normally attend laboratories until 10:30 p.m. on that evening will be enabled to attend the ball through changes in the schedules which have been arranged by the faculty.

Fields to Play

Lee Fields' Chevy Chase Lake Orchestra, popular with Summer-spot patrons, will play for the ball Friday, featuring specialties by Lanell Avery.

George O. Sanford, chief engineer of the Bureau of Reclamation, has consented to lead the grand march, accompanied by Mary Spelman, president of the Panhellenic Council.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Sanford, the following have been invited: Major-Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of Engineers, U. S. Army, and Mrs. Markham; Brig-Gen. G. B. Pillsbury, assistant chief of Engineers, and Mrs. Pillsbury; Major R. W. Guyer, U. S. District Engineer, and Mrs. Guyer; and Dr. William McClellan, president of the Potomac Electric Power Company, and Mrs. McClellan.

Dr. Marvin Invited

Dr. and Mrs. Cloyd H. Marvin; John R. Lapham, Dean of the School of Engineering, and Mrs. Lapham; Henry G. Doyle, dean of Columbian College, and Mrs. Doyle; and the entire engineering faculty have been invited.

The ball started from a small beginning back in 1932, when Ray Heimburger was in charge and led the grand march with Margaret Cook. Entertainment was furnished by Marjorie Mitchell, Ralph Kennedy and Bert Bagranoff of the current Troubadour cast. During the intermission the engineers' scandal sheet, "The Pick and Shovel," was distributed.

William, of Kugler's, who presides over the famous dining room, is speaking to one of the diners. William says of Camels: "Camels and good food go together. IN BRITISH GUIANA—the LaVarresford a river. "Camels make any meal digest easier," says William LaVarre. Mrs. LaVarre adds: "Camels help my digestion, in the jungle or dining at home."

GEORGE LOTT, tennis champion, knows how over-exertion strikes at digestion. He says: "I smoke a lot. Camels have a beneficial effect on digestion. They help me to enjoy what I eat and get more good out of it."

C Instead of F Is Worth $142.50, Thorndike Finds

Evaluates Scholastic Incentive in His Psychology Class

By Robert Elian

It is worth approximately $142.50 to the university student to get a "C" in a course instead of an "F," $1250 to go to college for a year, and $800 to graduate from college with honors.

Anyway that is what 70 students of Dr. Robert L. Thorndike's psychology class indicated in an experiment on values last week. Dr. Thorndike listed 21 incentives things a person might like to have or do, and asked the students how long they would be willing to stay in jail doing hard manual labor in order to receive each reward. No disgrace would be attached to this imprisonment. The last incentive was $500 cash; and it was found that the average student was willing to stay in jail two months to receive this money. In other words the student thought it worth a little over $60 a week to be kept in jail. By finding the amount of time the average student would remain in jail for a certain reward, Dr. Thorndike found the money value of the item.

The grade of C instead of F was much more valuable to the female student than the male. In fact it appeared that the co-ed was willing to be incarcerated a little over 26 days to keep from failing a course while her brother condescended but a week.

The co-ed put a value of $1,500 on the year at college while the male student thought it worth but $1,000. On the other hand the male was willing to stay in jail three weeks longer than his sister (or girl friend) to be able to graduate with honors.

It was evident that the male was pretty much satisfied with his looks since he would sacrifice no time for the item of making a change in appearance. The girl student, however, regarded an improvement in appearance to be worth $500.

Another large difference in the values of the male and female students was a trip to the South Sea Islands. The male thought it worth $1,500 to take a trip there, but the female thought it worth only $1,000.

The male would pay $60 to play par golf while the female was willing to pay only the price of one lesson, $2. She would pay the same amount to have a chance in the movies. The male did not consider it worth anything to have the chance to act in the movies.

The student one might think, is losing his respect for politics. A similar test last year showed that the student thought it worth $342.50 to be secretary to a congressman. The value of that item dropped to $47.50 this year.

The values of being President or of owning a saxophone were practically nothing.

Whether or not the male student knows the price difference between a Ford and Lincoln, he valued them the same, $500. The female put a more material estimate on them rating the Lincoln at $500 and the Ford at $250.

The Violets took a 17-14 trimming from the Gardenias in a lower League game Sunday, but managed to retain, by a one-point margin, leadership in the league over the Daisies, who took the Roses to town, 20-18.

which occasioned the irrepressible conflict.

It survived the attacks upon the legal tender cases in 1870; and the attacks made upon it by the "Great Commoner" in 1896 following the five-four income tax decision. And if there be anything in precedent we may not confidently assert that it will survive the "horse and buggy" homily emanating from the mansion on Pennsylvania Ave., following what probably will be embalmed in the history of that Court as the "alphabet" decisions.

Referring to the history and traditions of the University Law School, Mr. Jackson said, "We present these portraits fully satisfied with the past record of the Law School, inspired by the large and commanding place it now occupies in the field of legal education in the National Capital, and confident that its objectives will be widened and carried forward to an even more commanding position in the future."

In accepting the portraits on behalf of the University, President Marvin declared that the Law School is pledged to the type of service exemplified in the lives of the three former jurists.

Among the distinguished guests were George A. King, a member of the Law Class of '72 and one of the oldest living alumni, whom Mr. Jackson characterized as "the Nestor of the Bar and the most beloved of them all." James Brewer Carrick, grandson of Justice Brewer, was also in attendance.

THE GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY WASHINGTON, D. C. Publications Office

February 18, 1936

Dear Student Body:

Perhaps the best way to communicate with all of you at one time is through our University Hatchet, a newspaper which we are certain you all believe is truly representative of our University.

No doubt you realize that the success of any newspaper depends upon the volume of advertising which a college paper, such as ours, is able to procure. The amount of advertising in turn depends upon the support received from the territory in which the advertising is released.

In reading your Hatchet you can see that our local merchants are endeavoring to give you buying "tips" that are truly to your advantage to use. These merchants are interested and willing to help make your paper a success. They wish to become better acquainted with you that they may serve your needs and wishes to the best of their ability. And they attempt to do this by advertising in the Hatchet.

Let us prove to them that we appreciate their cooperation. How? Very easily! When you make a purchase from any of these merchants, let them know you are from George Washington University. In other words—LET'S SUPPORT OUR HATCHET ADVERTISERS!

Gratefully yours,

Letter Shows Kipling Had Fears of Volcanic Regions

By Sally McCann

That Rudyard Kipling had fears for the "tourist of the future" visiting in the Katmai Volcano region of Alaska, was revealed upon discovery of a letter to Dr. Robert F. Griggs, professor of botany, from the late poet.

The letter, one of thanks for the gift of Dr. Griggs' book, "The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes", was written in 1923.

"I suppose it is all right," stated Mr. Kipling in his letter, "for the President to proclaim all the whole area of the Katmai Volcano region a national reserve, but after reading your account of it, I think it would have been a heap safer for the tourist of the future if it had been put out of bounds and picketed by U. S. troops. Someday, you will lose the entire passenger list of a large steamer in those parts. Then you will be sorry."

"The Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes" tells the story of the discovery by the National Geographic Society expeditions, headed by Dr. Griggs, of one of the largest volcanic eruptions in the world.

Each puff less acid—Luckies are A LIGHT SMOKE

For twenty-five years the research staff of The American Tobacco Company has worked steadily to produce a measurably finer cigarette—namely, a cigarette having a minimum of volatile components, with an improved richness of taste—"A LIGHT SMOKE."

We believe that Lucky Strike Cigarettes embody a number of genuinely basic improvements, and that all these improvements combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

Varsity Five Concludes Court Season Monday Night

Buff Meets Two N. Y. Teams

Colonials Travel to Face
St. Johns and Long Island

Wake Forest Opposes G.
W. in Finale Monday
Night

CLIMAXING the most successful season in Colonial history, the George Washington five will invade Brooklyn this week to meet two of the strongest teams in the country when they stack up against St. Johns and Long Island, Thursday and Friday. Monday the Colonials conclude their season against Wake Forest at the G. W. gym.

In the first of the two games, which will be classics, the G. W. hoopers will attempt to drop St. Johns for the second straight year. Last year the Buff and Blue came out on top 29-26 after a battle, that had the fans waving their gum and chewing their hats with excitement.

Loss Few Games

This year St. Johns has lost very few games, including a three-point loss to N. Y. U., an upset by Niagara, and a loss to Long Island.

The Redmen are considered the third best team in the New York area, only N. Y. U. and Long Island being above them, a fact that may cause the Colonials' much grief Thursday night. The New Yorkers center their efforts around a fast passing, cutting attack, which may upset the close-guarding Buff and Blue if they aren't clicking.

Friday night, the Reinhardtmen meet Long Island U. winners of their last 29 games, and rated one of the most powerful teams in the country. The Blue Devils won their last seven games last year and 22 this year. Among their victims are: Duquesne, by six points; St. Johns, by 16 points; Catholic University, by a big score; and La Salle, 49-5. Last year Long Island gave the G. W. a 50-29 defeat, the worst handed the Colonials all season. Messrs. O'Brien, Kiesel, and Co. are determined to show the Bee-coached outfit that last year's game was a mistake.

Monday, the Buff return to Washington to finish the season against Wake Forest, in a return game. Earlier this year, the Colonials looped the Deacons into submission, 38-19, and figure to repeat the performance.

Give 50-50 Chance

The Washingtonians will have to step fast to win either of the first two games. However, judging from last week's results the Colonials have a 50-50 chance to come through.

Friday, G. W. traveled to Elkins, W. Va., and over-wheeled Davis-Elkins for the second time in the highest scoring game that was ever played in the Senator's gym, 70-52. Ben Goldfaden, shoot off his lethargy of recent games and scored 20 points. Hal Kiesel poured in 15 points, followed by Tommy O'Brien, with 13.

Saturday one of the most encouraging victories of the season was registered against West Virginia at Morgantown, 42-28. The co-owners of Temple and Carnegie Tech gave George Washington a fight until the last 10 minutes, but the closing spurt of the Colonials was too much for the Mountaineers. Sixteen points by Hal Kiesel and 10 by Ben Goldfaden were the highlights of G. W.'s first basketball victory in the West Virginia school.

Things and Stuff—Mostly Stuff

Colonial prospects for a great net team look bright—for 1937—with the entrance of Morgan "Happy" Jacobs, eight ranking player in the District. Tony Latona, No. 2 last year, and the two Sherry boys, who are also among the District's top-notchers, will make a fine team if they go out for it. However, neither Jacobs or Latona will be eligible until 1937.

The frosh basketballers were making things awfully hot for Devitt in their game Saturday afternoon...when one harassed prepper turned in desperation to the coaches bench and yelled, "Hey, Coach, send out five more players...we ain't got enough yet!"...later when the score was even worse, the same player, dejected, looked over his shoulder at the other end of the court, where a freshman was in the act of shooting a totally unneeded goal...and murmured, "that's my man..."

Coach "Joe" Reinhardt, of Georgetown has the best basketball team in town, according to "Post Mortems," the Post's pet column. "S too bad the Frosh had to lose that game to Rinaldi Tailors...but we still think the yearlings are the best...They'll show'em, if they get a crack at them in the D. C. A. U. event beginning this week."

Kiesel Tops O'Brien By Two Points, Leads Scorers

Ability to Sink Foul Shots
Puts Lanky Center
Ahead

ABILITY at the foul line proved to be margin of difference between Hal Kiesel and Tommy O'Brien following last week's games, Kiesel being in front of the G. W. scoring race by two points.

Though Hal has tallied only 60 field goals to 66, O'Brien, Kiesel has chalked up 34 free throws to 20 for Tommy. Kiesel started off slowly this week by registering only seven points against Randolph-Macon, but on the West Virginia trip, Hal found the climate to his liking and scored 15 points against Davis-Elkins and 16 against West Virginia for a total of 31 points. While this was going on O'Brien looped 12 points against Randolph-Macon and 13 against the Senators. However, he slumped in the West Virginia tilt when he scored only five points to bring his total to 152.

Ben Goldfaden who was hopelessly behind in third place got a new lease on life and in the last two games pulled himself to 134 points by rolling up 20 points against Davis-Elkins and 10 against the Mountaineers.

Milt Schoenfeld ousted Tufty Leemans from fourth place by scoring 20 points in two games. Milt now has 78 points to Leemans' 62.

G. W. Riflers Challenge V. P. I.

Team Scores Three "Possibles" in Navy Match; Florida Tops Colonials

UNDAUNTED by the Feb. 8 defeat at the hands of University of Florida, 1364-1339 (unofficial), the George Washington University varsity rifle team meets Virginia Polytechnic Institute this Friday.

Last Friday, the G. W.-Navy match saw Coach Frank T. Parsons' boys much improved over the week before. The squad's score showed a jump of 42 points over the Florida meet which may not be enough to defeat Navy, but still leaving a possible slim chance.

The highlights of the match with Navy came when three "possible" scores were made by Dana Wallace, Jack Harlan, and Tracy Mulligan. Wallace and Harlan came through with their 100 early in the match. Mulligan, the last to fire, emerged from the range believing to have shot a 99. On closer examination, Coach Parsons proclaimed it a "possible." This is the first time this season that a possible was made by G. W. in an intercollegiate match.

Scores of the event:

	Pt.	Kd.	St.	Tot.
Wallace	100	96	91	287
Harlan	100	96	88	284

Logan Expounds on Tourney "Frosh Will Beat Rinaldi Tailors"

The "Fighting Frosh" basketballers, seeded in the D. C. A. U. tournament, and therefore drawing a first-round bye, will go into their second-round match under new leadership, but with the outspoken confidence of their retiring coach, Roland Logan, spurring them on.

After watching the entire squad stage a circus against Devitt Prep, Saturday, to win by a score of 61-20, Coach Logan was willing to discount that two-point defeat suffered the night before at the hands of the Rinaldi Tailors.

"It will be a lot tougher league than two years ago," he pointed out, referring to 1934, when the freshmen copped not only the District championship, but carried on to win the South Atlantic title. "This year the tournament will boast such high-rating teams as, Bureau of Investigation, Olmstead Grill, Resettlement Division, Peppo, as well as the Rinaldi Tailors, who have taken the Frosh, by narrow margins, twice this season.

"And Rinaldi," he conceded, "will be the toughest of the lot. They've been playing together for five or six years now, as the Scholl's Cafe quintet, and they were all high school and college stars to start with."

"However, I think we can take them. They have been playing a tough schedule, some 45 games. And they are older boys too...all around 25 and 26. They should have passed their peak. They won't improve much."

"Our boys, on the other hand, are younger. The average age of the squad is only 18½. We can and will improve these youngsters, if and when we meet the Rinaldi, we can, I think, take them."

Backing up this display of confidence, Logan had made no preparations for any extra drills, beyond the customary setting-up of defense plays for each opponent and other regular drills.

Acacia and T. U. O. Appear
To Be Best Teams
In League B

Barnett, S. P. E. Has Three-Game Total of 338; Davis Bowls 139

SIGMA PHI EPSILON and Sigma Nu broke out on top when the barrier was sprung Saturday in the Interfraternity bowling leagues, the teams representing these fraternities, each winning all three games in their matches, and as a result both clubs are in first place in their respective leagues.

As a result of the games, bowled at the Rendezvous Alleys on Fourteenth Street, Kappa Alpha and Delta Tau Delta are each tied for second place behind S. P. E. in league A, while in league B both Tau Upsilon Omega and Phi Sigma Kappa are perched on the second rung just below S. N.

No particularly close games were rolled in league A, though Kappa Alpha led Kappa Sigma by only 10 pins on team totals. Barnett of S. P. E. took top honors for the evening for league A with a 123 single game high and 338 three game total. His single game high was topped by Davis of league B who scored a 139 in his first game but who wound up with but a 322 three game total.

T. U. O.'s Show Form
Though winning only two of their games, the T. U. O.'s showed the best form of any of the league B teams, piling up a three game total of 1524. Their victims, Acacia, were better than T. U. O. in team performance, having a three game total of 1551, the nights high, but were nosed out by T. U. O. by a three pin margin in the final game and had to take the losing end of the three game match.

Phi Sigma Kappa was the only league B club to be anywhere near T. U. O. or Acacia in team score, having a 1405 three game total. The Phi Sigs dropped their first game to Sigma Kappa, but managed to "duck out" in the last two games to win the match.

S. N. Unimpressive
Though winning all three games the Snakes of S. N. did not perform in a championship manner and do not figure to maintain their perfect average very long in the stiff B league competition. S. N. had a 1394 team total for the match to Sigma Alpha Epsilon's poor 1286 total.

Varsity Swim Team Meets Va. Friday

Freshman Team Swims Y. M. C. A. Thursday; Lose to Central, 48-18

WHILE the George Washington varsity swimming team leaves Washington this Friday to compete with the undefeated University of Virginia swimmers, the freshmen swimming team will remain at home to challenge the Y. M. C. A. Thursday at 8 p.m.

Ineligible to swim in the Virginia meet, Beverly Carter's absence will seriously handicap the team while a sadly deleted freshman team meets the "Y."

Last Friday saw the freshmen natators suffer an overwhelming defeat at the hands of the Central High swimmers, 48-18. Due to the lack of several swimmers, no event was won by the Buff and Blue team.

Freshmen In Final Games

Face Central 'Y', Tech and Western; Three Former Victims

Score Easily Over Devitt and G. W. High; Lose to Rinaldi

THE Freshmen leather-loopers conclude their regular season this week, playing three games, all against opposition they have beaten earlier in the season.

They face the Central Y. M. C. A. tomorrow on their home court at 7 p.m. in the first of the regular games. They took over the Y-men, who are boasting of the greatest team in their history, by a 37-19 count. The Christians, who are prepping for the D. C. A. A. U. tourney also, probably will be quite a bit harder to take than before.

Tech, who finally ended up in the Inter-High cellar, provide the Junior Colonials with their next tilt on the Tech floor, Friday at 3:30.

Western on Tap Monday
Western is the last scheduled opponent of the season, and they also dropped a 34-21 decision to the Frosh in the season's opener. They were narrowly beaten out of runner-up position in the Inter-High championship series, and, if their big three of Lomax, Burns, and Daly are hot, they will put up a good fight, especially on their home court. This fracas is scheduled for 3:30, Friday.

Last week the Frosh sandwiched

Alpha Kappa Psi Will Hear Utah Senator

Thomas Addresses Commerce Fraternity Tomorrow Night

The Hon. Elbert D. Thomas, junior Senator from Utah and chairman of the American Institute of Adult Education, will address Alpha Kappa Psi, national commerce fraternity, at a special meeting tomorrow evening at 8:30 at the Acacia House, 1707 Mass Ave.

Senator Thomas' five-year residence in Japan as president of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints' Mission there afforded him unusual opportunities for research and study of Oriental political institutions and philosophy. He is a master of the Japanese and Chinese languages and also was instructor in Latin and Greek at the University of Utah in 1913-15.

Thomas is a member of the Chinese Political and Social Science Association, the American Political Science Association, American Oriental Society, American Academy of Political and Social Science, and represents the American Society of International Law on the American Council of Learned Societies.

He is a member of the following Senate committees: Foreign Relations, Education and Labor, Military Affairs, Mines and Mining, and Pensions.

Freshman Quint Concludes Season

A beating by the Rinaldi in-between two wins: one over George Washington High, Alexandria, the other which resembled a circus, over Devitt Prep, by a 41-20 count. They had little trouble subduing the G. W. Highsters. Although the scholastic quint is considered one of the best in the Old Dominion State, Bob Farig, high-scorer of the fledgling flippers, came within four points of equalling the total piled up by the entire Alexandria aggregation, heaving in 18 points.

Second Loss to Rinaldi. The game with Rinaldi, Friday night, turned out to be one of the most bitterly-fought, and most entertaining games held in the Tin Tabernacle this season. Guarding throughout was extremely close; so much so that both teams had to fall back on long shots as a last resort. Because the Tailors were a shade more proficient in sinking the lengthy loopers they eventually came through, after trailing the home boys throughout almost the entire first three quarters. The score was tied at the half, 13-13. The Devitt game was early seen to be one-sided, so Coach Logan gave the half-dozen riotous spectators a circus as he used the entire frosh squad, keeping up a steady stream to-and-fro from the bench, though unable to keep the score down, no matter whom he used.

Parsons Believes It's Too Late To Form Frosh Squad

Believing it to be too late in the season, Coach Frank T. Parsons, Jr., will not form a freshman rifle team this year. Hopes for a freshman team were first felt early in Dec. when the freshmen produced surprisingly good results.

Then came a "de-acceleration" of improvements. Jan. passed by and now in Feb. the results produced are not such to warrant a team—the result, no freshman team this year.

and Glenn Cunningham the nation's premier miler. Through the efforts of Calvin Griffith, former G. W. pitching ace, Logan was signed by Joe Cronin last year as trainer for his Boston baseball club. The successful comeback of Bob "Lefty" Grove, as well as Wes Ferrell, both apparently "washed up" because of strained ligaments, in their pitching arms, may be directly laid to the treatment administered by the new Boston trainer.

Philosophers Hear Taliaferro

Graduate Student From Virginia Discusses Philapinus

R. Gatsby Taliaferro, graduate student at the University of Virginia, delivered a lecture on medieval philosophy before the members of Phi Sigma Rho, local philosophical society, Wednesday night.

Taliaferro, who studied four years at the University of Paris, and who is now engaged in writing a doctor's thesis at the University of Virginia, took for his subject Philapinus, a grammarian of Alexandria. He demonstrated Philapinus's interpretations of Aristotle and attempted to show a link more platonic than Aristotelian between this interpretation and that of Renaissance scientists, who, in turn affected modern scientific conceptions.

Russell's book on "The Elements of Mathematics" which reduces mathematics to logic served as a premise from which Taliaferro sought to show that logic can be reduced to grammar and that therefore scientific principles can all be reduced to grammatical rules.

limelight at the second ball. Accompanied by Grace Giffen, he led the grand march. Mitchell and Kennedy again did their bit toward the entertainment, and Sue Crump and Margaret Gilligan presented their hit numbers from "Oh, Say Can't You See?"

Following the precedent of past years the engineers' last year chose the Panhel president, Mary Louise Yauch, to do the honors in the grand march, Commissioner Melvin C.
